Passionate about art from a young age, and having completed her Visual Arts Degree at Sydney College of the Arts, Sydney based artist, Natalie Uhrík has always been pulled by her creative side. The principal theme in Natalie's work are landscapes. With a range of painting techniques, line, texture and colour, her pieces mimic the elements of nature and create a kind of ambience. Painting from a deep subconscious, these free flowing layers of colours and spontaneous movements create feelings of calm, gratitude, contentment, optimism and acceptance.

This piece holds a quiet stillness, a sense of calm and deep reflection. It feels like a moment of pause, like taking a breath and turning inward. It speaks to meditation, thought, and the gentle practice of being present.

The colours are soft and layered, creating a peaceful mood. They flow together with ease, suggesting emotion and movement without needing to shout. The textures add depth, making the surface feel alive and full of quiet energy.

She represents spirit, love and peace. A quiet strength. A reminder that softness can be powerful, and that peace begins from within.
